Library to Offer Free Legal Information on Immigration

Yakima, WA – Yakima Valley Libraries is pleased to announce that the July session of “Lawyers in the Library,” a free, legal aid program offered at the Yakima Central Library, 102 N. Third Street, will take place Sunday, July 16 at 1pm. This month’s session will provide attendees with free immigration information and answers to related legal questions.

The session will be hosted by attorney Stephen Robbins, who has practiced immigration law in Yakima since 2011. According to librarian Matt Kendall, attendees will receive a thorough overview of legal issues related to immigration.

“It isn’t unusual for patrons to stay after the session to ask specific questions about their cases,” Kendall explained. “And since the sessions are entirely free, it’s a great opportunity for the public to seek clarity and guidance on legal situations that normally would require costly appointments with a lawyer.”

The session will be presented in English, with Spanish translation available. There is no cost to attend, and registration is not required.

For more information about this and upcoming Lawyers in the Library workshops, contact librarian Matt Kendall at (509) 452-8541.
